All-Star Gridders Look Fit; Training For Big Game

Negaunee-Every member of the two squads who will be pitted against each other in a north-south all-star football game here Saturday was in town this morning, the last of them reporting after making short trips from neighboring communities, and they were set to go into action at once.

Looking fit as the proverbial fiddle, the boys were enthusiastic about the game and Coaches Allan Ronberg, Norway, for the south, and Joe DeCook, Newberry, for the north, smiled as they looked over the talent.

The boys got together as a group for the first time at breakfast this morning, served by women of the First Methodist Church.

After, there was a general discussion on the conditions which would govern the week's training and conduct, and the terms of the game.

Then came the first squad meetings with DeCook and Ronberg getting in their first fighting language. This afternoon the opening drills were being held and from here on it will be a steady drive toward the Saturday night presentation.
